The next in the series of the Wells dancing assemblies will be held in the Woodmen's hall on Thursday evening, March 18, it was announced at the sixth dance in the series which was held last evening in the same hall. Gilbertson's orchestra furnished the music for dancing last night, and the order continued to midnight, with an intermission, during which refreshments were served.

The ground-hog chuckled away to himself over the latest manifestation that the back of winter is still strong and he reckoned that his prophecy of six weeks and more of winter weather after Candlemas day looked good for fulfillment. The several inches of snow which fell yesterday were tossed into drifts by the north wind last night, making the country roads in bad condition to-day.

Though you may have seen the Hadley pictures before, do not fail to see the wonderful new collection to be presented here to-morrow afternoon and evening. Mr. Hadley's pictures are selected with rare and careful discrimination and every effort is extended to gratify the various tastes of his patrons. The program abounds in comedy, wholesome fun with all semblance of vulgarity eliminated, magic pictures, beautiful and interesting travel views, interspersed with novelties and sensations.

The production of James K. Hackett's New York success, "Call of the Wild," with Franklin Woodruff, which has been finding much favor and which is to be seen at the opera house to-night, is said to be cleverly arranged. Of course Mr. Woodruff is the central figure and around him are grouped all the characters of the play. There is Captain Lewis or the U. S. A., Major Searies, Crooked Bear Katherine Searies, the major's daughter, and Lieutenant Butler. These characters are all capably drawn and equally well portrayed and the play promises to win even more success. It has much to commend it, as it is clean and wholesome, tells a beautifully interesting story, is replete with bright lines and quaint sayings, and has a delightful and refreshing atmosphere.
